

Justin Parsons

Web Designer/Front-End Developer

Profile

Hi, I'm Justin. I'm a software development graduate and web designer. I have an obsession with technology/programming and helping businesses grow.

I currently work full time as a web design consultant for my business Planet9 Designs. Before starting my own company, I helped run small family businesses for ten years.

My experience in business helps me understand needs and deliver solutions that help businesses reach goals.

" Justin went above and beyond, he traveled 100 miles to have a face to face consultation with me. He put together a website that fit our studio and really showcased what we are about. As an artist, we are not the easiest to work with as we have a vision of what we want Justin worked with us and we are extremely happy with the results. "
